

Universal analytic preorders

Riccardo Camerlo

Politecnico di Torino

`camerlo@polito.unito.it`

An analytic preorder on a standard Borel space is universal if any analytic preorder Borel reduces to it. Typical ways to generate analytic preorders consist in requiring the existence of monomorphisms or of epimorphisms in spaces of algebraic or topological structures. The universality of some analytic preorders so generated will be discussed, stressing analogies and differences between the two cases.